Congregational Singing.

The Christian Banner says: The attractiveness of congregational singing consists in its magnificent volume of sound. Call it noise if you please, but it is grand. Its only halfway singing that affects the ear. What goes by this name is often little more than dispersed choir singing, where the few who sing are separated from each other by the many who hear and criticise the several solitary performers; but when one great tide of music floods the Boys' Sewed & Pegged WHITE LEAD whole assembly, drawing out the ought to be timid, then we are attracted, captivated. In the mountains of Tyrol, it is the custom of the women and children to come out, when it is bed time, and sing their national songs until they hear their husbands, and fathers, and brothers, answor them from the hills on their return home. On the shores of the Adriatic such a custom prevails. There the wives of the fishermen come down about sunset and sing a melody. After singing the first stanza, they listen awhile for the answering strain from off the water, and continue to sing and listen till the well-known voices come borne on the tide, telling that the loved open are almost home. How sweet to the weary fisherman as the shadows gather around him must be the songe of loved ones at home, who sing to cheer him, and how they strengthen and tighten the bonds that bind together these humble dwellers of the sea Truly it is among the lowly in this world that we find some of the most

(From the Braton Journal.)

POLAND'S WHITE PINE COMPOUND. — After having given it a thorough trial, we can confidently recommend Polond's While Pine Compound as a very valuable article for the cure of colds, coughs, and pulmonic complaints generally. In severa eases, we have known it to give prompt relief when all other remedies which had been tried had falled. It is an article, which, in a climate so promotive of sudden and severe colds as is that of New England, aught to be in every family; and we are sure that those who once obtain it, and give it a fair trial, will not thereafter be willing to be without it.

A VALUABLE MEDICINE, - Dr. Poland's While

Pine Compound, advertised in our columns, is a suc-cessful stiempt to combine and apply the medicinal virtues of the White Pine bark. It has been thor-
